

LocalServices

Access to local services, such as bluetooth, USB, or infrared connections

These connections usually don't incur any cost for the user and the user knows what services they are using. This capability is required if you want to transfer data over infrared, bluetooth, serial etc.

This capability does not give access to network or allow making calls. For those, see NetworkServices.

This capability can be used with self-signed applications.